Designing a pet Airline application with Figma and Photoshop involves initial wireframing in Figma, outlining key features like pet profiles, services, and appointments. Then, transitioning to Photoshop, detailed UI elements are crafted, focusing on color schemes, typography, and branding. Prototyping in Figma brings the design to life with interactive elements and transitions. Iterative feedback loops refine the design for optimal user experience. This process showcases proficiency in both Figma and Photoshop, emphasizing skills in wireframing, UI design, prototyping, and iterative development, vital for resume enhancement and job applications
